

Nicholas Capozzoli - Acting Director of Music at the Cathedral.

We are delighted that Dr Nick Capozzoli has accepted to be the Acting Director of Music at Christ Church Cathedral Montreal. Nick has served in different roles at the Cathedral in the past five years, as Assistant Organist and Interim Co-Director of Music. He is a talented international recitalist and has significant experience of our beautiful Karl Wilhelm organ, our singers and our community. We look forward to maintaining and developing our tradition of musical excellence under his leadership.

Christ Church Cathedral, Montréal has been my “home away from home” - and I’m happy to share it will continue to be. Yesterday was my first Sunday as Acting Director of Music, a role that will transition permanently in due time. In “normal times” Christ Church has one of Canada’s busiest music programmes, remaining one of few churches in the country with weekly Choral Evensong. I’m looking forward to working with two other staff organists, a dedicated Cathedral choir, and a music committee that will help us cater to the wider community. Of course, none of this would have been possible without the guidance of Patrick Wedd and Jonathan White, two major influences on my career in church music - not to mention the intensive work with Hans-Ola Ericsson. No one can predict our future post-COVID, but I’m happy to at least be in the presence of supportive friends and colleagues.
